

Model University Regulations

Attendance and Examination Regulation

Students are normally required to maintain at least 75 percent attendance in each course before appearing for the final examination. Attendance records are maintained by the relevant department and students should report errors promptly.

Medical Attendance Regulation

A student with an approved medical absence may be considered for examination eligibility when attendance is at least 60 percent, provided the medical absence has been formally approved and the required supporting documentation has been submitted.

Course Attempts Regulation

A failed course may generally be cleared through a re-examination. Students are normally permitted three re-examination attempts.

Academic Records

Students should verify their academic records and report administrative errors through the designated academic office.
